

SHOULD NEVER BEEN DRIVEN FROM WASHINGTON

Congressman Sulloway Thinks
It Was a Fit Place for the Red Men.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—"Uncle Cy" Sulloway represents a New Hampshire district and he lives in Manchester, where the weather is moderate. He is the tallest man in the House and he has the longest beard, which is white and waves with the breeze. He wears the longest and heaviest frock coat in Summer as well as in Winter. The coat has great bell skirts, which move with the breeze also. Under the coat he wears a heavy waistcoat.

"Uncle Cy" eschews shoes. He prefers bedroom slippers and wears them always. A wide, flat Panama hat tops his attire.

Saturday he stood upon the esplanade in front of the Capitol. Great beads of perspiration trickled from his brow and matted his whiskers.

"Uncle Cy" was hot. He gazed down upon the City of Magnificent Distances, with the line of white Government buildings dotting the Mall. He turned to a friend, mopped his brow and said:

"They never should have driven the Indians from this place. It was good enough for Indians."

WILSON NOT TO GO ON STUMP

Will Make Only a Few Speeches As
Country Is Tired of That Method

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 25.—With the idea that the country is weary of stumping tours and excessive speech making, Governor Wilson announced today that his present plans call for very few campaign speeches, not many outside of the state of New Jersey, and then only on particular occasions to which he will have received invitations.

"There will not be any large number of speeches away from New Jersey," said Governor Wilson today. "Still nobody knows what the developments of the campaign will be. It is general judgment that this is the most effective way to conduct this campaign. From my general correspondence, I find that a great many of the people believe that I ought not to make any great number of speeches. This country is tired of stumping tours."

"My private judgment is that extended stumping tours are not the most effective method of conducting a campaign. I may make a considerable number of speeches, but as for going about and canvassing the country, I have no such intention."

The governor also pointed out that the man who drew the biggest crowds did not always get the most votes. The governor explained that he personally would be unable at any time to travel far away from New Jersey because his duties as governor required him to be in close touch with state affairs.

The governor is watching the development of the Penrose-Archbold disclosures in connection with the Roosevelt campaign. He declined to comment on them but it is probable that he will have something to say on the subject in future speeches.

STRANGER CAUSES EXCITEMENT AT SOUTH END

Police Think That Man is Deranged—Puts Up Stout Resistance.

There was plenty of excitement at South End this noon when a man who had been acting rather queer was found in the cellar of Gilman Randall on South street.

Mrs. Randall became frightened and ran out of the house. Her cries were heard by Howard Rand who lives on Salter street and he hurried to the cellar of the Randall residence and started to arrest the intruder. The man fought desperately and Rand had his hands full in holding the man until Officer Shannon arrived and took him to the station. He gave his name as Daniel Lucy and is said to belong in Lawrence. The police believe that the man is demented and that he had no intention of robbery. He had been seen in the cemetery previously acting rather queer and people on New Castle avenue and other places in that section of the city reported the queer actions of the man to the police.

Both Rand and Lucy show marks of the fight in the cellar.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS

Local Contractors Are Busy and Several New Buildings Are In Process of Construction

Following the interval of summer depression real estate business has revived. Several transfers are reported by the brokers. Prospective purchasers have enticed the competition. While the construction of the new church building for the First Methodist church is the most important undertaking practically every contractor is erecting at least one new building. The majority of buildings in the process of construction will ultimately constitute the homes of prosperous citizens. Several of the buildings are being erected for the purpose of investment.

Lorenzo S. Leavitt has sold two lots in Prospect Park to Howell C. Russell, inspector in the office of the collector of the port. Alice B. Paul, wife of State Senator Clarence H. Paul, has sold half interest in several acres of land in Orchard and World streets and Lincoln avenue to Attorney John W. Kelley. The land will be divided into building lots. Sperry H. Locke has sold to Samuel Shapiro the two-story brick building on the south side of Congress street, recently occupied by Charles S. Towle, the grocer.

Amira J. Anderson has sold to Albert R. Jenkins 5000 square feet of land in Lincoln avenue, on which Mr. Jenkins will erect a frame dwelling. William R. Lomas has sold to Little Watson Ham 7000 feet of land in Madison street on which Mrs. Ham will erect a home. Patrolman James Doherty has sold his two-story dwelling on Lincoln avenue to Ralph D. Cloutman. Senator Paul has sold 2000 square feet of land in his newly opened tract off Bennett street to John E. Quirk, who will build a home.

Mary B. Burns has sold Martineau, the two-story wooden building and 5000 feet of land at 2 Bridge street. Harry J. Freeman has sold 5000 square feet of land on Bennett street to Alfred J. McQuirt, who will build. Curmine Marcotte has bought the two-story frame building and 2000 feet of land on the west side of Market street, between Deer and Russell streets, from Mrs. Ellen B. O'Keefe.

ders to that effect were sent out from the army headquarters in New York.

McLoughlin and Bundy, New Tennis Champions in Doubles, Have Made Great Record in Season's Play

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 26.—The victory of Maurice E. McLoughlin and Thomas C. Bundy over Raymond D. Little and Gustave F. Touchard in the national lawn tennis championship in doubles here recently came as a fitting climax to the four years of striving which the players from California have made in the all-comers' tournament. It also was a popular triumph, for the 5,000 spectators who sat about the grand stand stretch of turf cheered the fiery McLoughlin and the doughty Bundy for their gallant attack as in the day of their debut here in 1909. In other years players from the Pacific coast, the Hardy brothers and the Whitneys, have striven mightily in the all-comers', but it was the first time in the history of the American game that a national championship has fallen to their portion. McLoughlin and Bundy by taking the doubles championship place the capstone upon a season of record play. It began with the Pacific coast title, led to the sectional doubles ties where the east, west, south and Pacific coast met at Onwentsia earlier this month, on through the tournament for the New York state championship and the Meadow club at Southampton, N. H. The pair have met every other team of prominence in this country, and by their recent victory they round out the season with a triumph before which all their others are comparatively insignificant.

chards about town by breaking off the limbs which were laden with fruit. The wind which accompanied the downpour also twisted some of the shade trees. It left large pools of water on many of the streets and the highway agent had to be notified to make them passable in places.

In connection with the weekly services conducted by the Rev. John E. Finen, pastor of the St. Michael's church at the Casino at Hampton beach, a sacred concert was held last evening. Music was furnished by the band there and also by the Ashworth house orchestra.

Exeter's tennis standing received a lift last week when Clifton B. Herd of Pasadena, Cal., won the national interscholastic championship at Newport. Herd also played as far as the fifth round in the all-comers, being beaten by Williams of Philadelphia. He was the winner of the Harvard interscholastic championship which gave the right to contest at Newport.

Herd is one of the best athletes in Phillips-Exeter, being a member of the football eleven and also of the track team, being shot putter on the latter.

THE SITUATION IN MARYLAND.
Governor PHILLIPS Lee Goldsborough who has the distinction of being one of the two Republican governors which Maryland has elected in the past fifty years, gives it as his opinion that Mr. Taft can count upon many independent Democratic votes in that state and also that many Negroes who supported Roosevelt in the spring primaries will vote the regular Republican ticket next November.

Maryland has a normal Democratic majority of from ten thousand to twenty thousand, but the people of that state are very conservative. They are not quick to let go their moorings, and sail into uncharted waters. It was this very conservatism that caused error—a great rarity in Maryland, indeed—in a large measure by independent Democratic votes.

The governor places the number of independent votes in his state at thirty thousand. We have generally understood that there are a great many more of them. The conservative position of Mr. Taft will no doubt appeal to these voters. The Maryland farmers have been exceedingly prosperous during the past ten years. They really are better off not only on the vegetable storehouse, but in all parts of the State, than ever before in their history.

No farmer is slow to realize this. Then why should he be expected to jeopardize his prosperity by a wrong step—by voting so as to bring about a change in his national government? Governor Goldsborough is positively convinced that a large portion of the Maryland industrial workers as well as the farmers believe in a protective policy. The intelligent tiller of the soil there has good reason not to forget that in 1898 and thereafter—that is, during a Democratic administration—farm land was at a very low price, and that since the advent of the Republican party land values have more than doubled.

All this being the case—and we are near enough to Maryland to know that the governor is not exaggerat-

BOTH SIDES ARE CLAIMING A VICTORY

Portland, Me., Aug. 25.—Hardly could leaders of opposing political parties be more confident of success at the polls than the Democrats and Republican campaign generals, in Maine, though defeat faces one of the two parties at the State election, Sept. 9.

Leading Democrats predict the reelection of Gov. Frederick W. Plaisted by from 12,000 to 15,000. Republicans seem just as hopeful that William T. Haines will replace him, however. One prediction sets Mr. Haines' plurality at not less than 4000. The same situation exists as Congressional candidates for four seats, and those for the State Legislature, which will elect a United States Senator.

A GOOD JOB.

The Board of Public Works are engaged in grading Lincoln and Elwyn Avenue, with the dirt taken out of Islington street. This is a long delayed but much appreciated work, for since this property has been opened and built up, very little has been done by the city on the streets.

When it is considered that for years this field was taxed at $2500 and now it has taxable property for over $100,000, so that it seems as though a little attention should be paid to the streets.

EXPRESS COMPANIES MUST FACE TRIAL

Washington, Aug. 24.—The Adams and American Express Companies, indicted for violations of the Interstate Commerce act, must face trial. There is no escape through pleadings that they are not corporations or companies within the meaning of the law.

That in effect was the decision of Federal Judge Hazel at Buffalo in an opinion today in the case begun by the Interstate Commerce Commission against the two companies, alleging overcharges and granting unlawful concessions.

The indictments of the companies were found by the Federal Grand Jury here April 11. The Adams Company was indicted on five counts charging a rebate was allowed shippers at Arcade, N. Y., for bringing goods to the company's station. The penalty for each offense is not less than $1000 or more than $20,000 fine. The American indictment contains 10 counts of overcharging on shipments originating at Allquippa, Penn. The maximum penalty is a fine of $5000 for each offense.

PEARL HARBOR DOCK IN DIFFICULTY

SAN FRANCISCO—Admiral R. M. Stanford of the Bureau of docks and yards U. S. N., returned on the ocean liner Sonoma from an inspection of the $3,000,000 Pearl Harbor drydock now under construction in the Hawaiian Islands.

The decision of Admiral Stanford's inspection was the engineering obstacle of loose foundations for the drydock, an obstacle which has delayed the laying of foundations for more than a year, says the San Francisco Call.

Civil Engineer, F. L. Gayler, U. S. N., who has charge of the construction met with difficulty in placing the foundations of the drydock. It was found that the bottom strata was loose and no base could be found for the foundations.

Nine thousand piles were driven to afford a base, and then it was discovered that it would be necessary to place the concrete under 35 feet of water.

After placing the concrete it was discovered that the concrete washed and disintegrated and thousands of dollars worth of material was lost.

Reports to the bureau at Washington attracted Admiral Stanford chief of the bureau to investigate and he went to Honolulu early last month. "We determined satisfactorily the cause of the trouble," said Admiral Stanford yesterday, "and we have come to conclusions as to modifications which will obviate all trouble."

We have devised a method to overcome the trouble and this has been put into operation. We fear of no further delay, for experimental results have been satisfactory.

"The trouble was that the concrete that it had been necessary to place under water disintegrated instead of setting."

We have decided on the introduction of a sharp Pacific coast sand in the mixture and are confident, this will prevent disintegration. The sands in the islands is lava and too soft.

"The peculiar strata gave us trouble for some time also."

The base for the foundations was of coral, lava, mud, and small rock of irregular formation and it was necessary to establish a piling base.

"Further difficulty was experienced in getting sufficient help to progress rapidly, but we expect from present progress to have the drydocks finished within two years."

In the event that Congress decides to extend the dock from 750 feet to 1000 feet, the dock will not be completed before 1915."

Admiral Stanford will return to Washington after a few days stay in San Francisco.

DEEPER WATERWAYS ASSOCIATION CONVENTION.

Philadelphia, Aug. 27.—The War Department has advised Congressman J. Hampton Moore, President of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, that it has favorably considered the request of the Association to assign one or more battleships to New London, Ct. during the Fifth Annual Convention of that body, September 4, 5, and 6. The "Illinois" and probably the "Indiana" will be assigned to New London.

President Taft is to attend the Convention and will speak at historic old Fort Griswold, on Groton Heights, on September 6th. Accompanied by Mrs. Taft, he will arrive at New London on the Mayflower about noon, September 6th. The President's party will be met at the dock of the Hotel Griswold by a joint committee representing the City of New London and the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association and escorted to the hotel for luncheon, immediately after which the President will receive the delegates to the Convention. Following the reception President Taft will motor to Fort Griswold and address the delegates to the convention, returning to the Mayflower late in the afternoon.

The Presidential suite of 21 guns will be fired from the battleships stationed in the harbor of New London, while a detail from the Blue Militia of Connecticut will act as an escort during the President's visit.

This is the second Convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association that President Taft has attended, having been the guest of honor at the Second Annual Convention, held at Norfolk, Va., in November, 1909.

For President,
WILLIAM H. TAFT
Of Ohio.

For Vice President,
JAMES S. SHERMAN, of New York.

MONDAY, AUGUST 26, 1912.

PRESIDENT MELLEN ACTS PROMPTLY.

The National laws cause some peculiar situations, for instance, the various railroad lines in New Hampshire leased to the Boston & Maine Railroad provide by the terms of the lease that the directors should be provided with free passes. Recent ruling of the Interstate Commerce court is to the effect that these directors cannot legally be furnished with transportation. As soon as President Mellen had the decision in hand it was gone over by his legal representatives and then followed his letter to the directors calling in their annuity. Mr. Mellen's action should be commended as a further demonstration that he is desirous of obeying the laws and orders of legally constituted authorities in the management of the railroad, but it does look as though a contract these days is really no contract at all.

When Congressman Cy Sullyway made that remark, that "they should never have driven the Indians from Washington," he was undoubtedly thinking of the cool spot on Cutler's veranda at Hampton Beach, where he usually passes the summer, instead of the hot atmosphere of the National capital.

The Concord Monitor says, "New Hampshire's gift from Japan in memory of the Portsmouth peace conference is to have a counterpart on the Pacific coast. The Japanese building at the Panama Pacific exposition in San Francisco will occupy with its grounds four acres of land, will cost a million dollars and will be a permanent gift to the United States."

The Boston Herald well says that in all its present political complications Maine should not forget that it gives to the Congress of the United States a man of exceptional equipment, and of nation-wide reputation, in Asher C. Hinds of the Portland district. The Pine Tree State owes it to the country to contribute to Congress the gifted historian of its parliamentary record.

The Way to Wash Autos.

The proper washing of automobile bodies is a very important work and one which has been almost entirely overlooked in many sections of the country so far as giving instructions to chauffeurs as to how this work should be done. Often if the instructions were left to the car owner it would be out of the question, as he is not sufficiently familiar with the best methods to issue instructions. It is safe to say that the operation of washing a car is least understood of all work in car maintenance. The proper performance least appreciated of any work is car maintenance, yet it is so far as maintaining a good appearance of the car is concerned, the most important work on the car.

The use of soap in washing an automobile is unnecessary and ill-advised where the washer thoroughly understands his business. As it is common practice to use soap in washing automobiles and as it is not the intention of this article to advocate washing automobiles without soap, the article will discuss washing with soap.

It is common practice to adopt the easiest method of removing dirt. The easiest method is to purchase a good, strong soap. This, with the use of water, at times almost hot, removes the dirt in the easiest manner. It has the drawback, however, of removing the varnish. One washing of this character will not remove the varnish, but a dozen washings will dull it and a few months will remove it, so far as the luster is concerned. A continuance of this practice will actually remove the body of the varnish in a few months more and in extreme cases of use and abuse following this practice it has been known to remove the paint itself, as some of the ingredients, acids and alkali, in the strong soap are employed in various mixtures, used for removing paint for the purpose of refinishing a car.

The use of the best imported castile is recommended. Laundry and toilet soaps are to be avoided. Automobile soaps, some good, some bad, are made expressly for washing cars. They are made in both the soft and the hard soap variety. The proper soap, principal ingredients of which are pure potash and oil, will properly clean a car, and will have no bad effect on the luster of the car. Soap that contains alkali should not be used. Any of the alkalis, either sodium or potassium carbonate, are naturally bad for varnish. Many owners have access to the services of a chemist, in which case it is very little trouble to analyze the soap. Those who do not have access had best stick to the imported castile that a high grade dealer sells for a soap free of objectionable ingredients.

The temperature of the water used is most important. Hot or even warm water should not be used; neither should extremely cold water be used. Proper temperature is from sixty to seventy degrees Fahrenheit. Where a hose is used, care should be taken that the force of the water is only sufficient to carry the stream six or eight inches beyond the end of the hose. The use of a fast running stream drives the grit, dust and dirt into the varnish. The use of the sponge and chamols following picks up the grit and scratches result. In selecting sponges be careful to select the best and only those guaranteed free from grit, sand and particles of shell.

Having determined the proper soap to use, temperature of water and selection of sponge, the operation of washing should have careful consideration, as even with sponge soap, correct temperature and sponge the car may be damaged by improper washing.

Properly to wash a car with soap first dissolve in a pail of water sufficient soap to make a good suds. Then in the washing operation use the suds, sopping it on from the sponge instead of rubbing the soap on a wet sponge or, what is worse, rubbing it on the surface of the car. Before applying the suds the car should be rinsed thoroughly with water.

THOUGHTS FOR THE QUIET HOUR "Faith."

In the first verse of the eleventh chapter of Hebrews, the writer of that book says: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

The word "faith" is spoken of so often in the New Testament and it is made so prominent that we need to understand clearly what it means.

In years long past and to some extent now, it has been made to crown the heads of many denominations. One must have faith in the interpretation which their denomination put upon different passages of the Bible. In other words one must believe and trust in a certain interpretation put on the teachings of Christ.

If a man is very sick and is going to die, the Catholic Priest goes to him with the cross up before him and tells him he must believe certain things and he will be saved; then comes the minister and the minister or priest will end him straight to Heaven, where perhaps the man had lived the life of a devil. He in his disposition had rasped at the hand held out to him to me this would be farcical if it were not so serious.

This is called "Faith." Another case we are to accept the teachings of the Bible, explained by theologians who have a hundred or perhaps five hundred years ago. When I was young I was the greatest darning not to believe that he was created in six days of twenty-four hours each. Now we are required to believe that Adam and Eve were created sinless and were perfect in their character, and because they did just what God knew they would do, and actually put that in them which would respond to temptation. God was angry with them and poured a curse upon them and held his until an innocent being paid the penalty, then God did conclude to pardon those who had nothing to do with the original act, and we are required to believe that he is a loving Father. I should call it a hating devil. I do not understand why deception is used in the Bible for it is a complete contradiction of the rest of the Bible, besides the very things which are called a curse are among the greatest blessings God has given to men. What would he now be if he did not have to work. He would be no better than a jelly fish, no strength of mind or body. Those are the very things which makes a strong man, and worth anything to himself or any one else. So I repeat I was a lessing and not a curse, and love and of anger which makes us work and resist sinful temptations. Of course shall be asked what I am to do with the record as we have it? I am not going to do anything with it, but let it go as it is, and as I have so many other passages which I do not understand for time to interpret the same as I like, the story of the Creation. A belief in these things has and is by some called Faith. I call it a supposition. Some are made to believe that all these things must be believed or he soul will be lost, so they try to force themselves to believe something which their better nature revolts against. I have quoted from the writer of the book of Hebrews his definition of faith, but I have to study a little deeper to be able to put it in words that make it clear what it is. I may elieve a thousand things that would do me no good so I find faith means something more than belief. It seems to me that it is a belief in something which we cannot mathematically demonstrate, but we believe it so completely that we act upon it just as if we could prove it to others. To illustrate what I mean, in 1849 it was reported that gold was found in California. I shewed it. I did not go to see or get any. It did me no good. Others believed it, and went and found it and at some time was only a belief which was of no value to me. This as a belief acted up to and it became faith. Thus the difference between belief and faith. Now, I believe that it is a character which decides our destiny and not an intellectual belief. So faith that belief, if I make my character correspond to the teachings of Christ and act up to my belief, I shall succeed both here and hereafter. But I live a corrupt life and pay attention to the teachings of Christ or to his teachings, I may pretend to believe all the Priest's and ministers' things to us, or all that is even written, of creeds and beliefs, it will amount to nothing. I may have lived a bad life and become sick of it and broken it off and began to live a good life, so find my joy or pleasure in the good life, then it is a faith which is worth something. Jesus has put it in a very simple and a correct way when he says: "Show me your faith without words and I will show you my faith in my works." If we go to Heaven we shall be happy. If we are forced into Heaven and have the spirit of hell, even it would be hell to us. And here I will say what one wants to be the next life they must begin here. They will get left. You cannot be evil here and an Angel there. You will have to get your Angel-wings, and here or you will not be able to fly them.

Jack Sullivan, William Shapiro, "Whitney" Lewis and "Dago Frank" Ciroflet, the gang men indicted for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the New York gambler who exposed the relations between the police and the gambling fraternity, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in court. Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, the alleged instigator of the murder and who also is under indictment, refused to plead and was granted further time in which to do so. All the prisoners are held without bail in the Tombs prison. The figures are (1) Sullivan, (2) Becker, (3) Shapiro, (4) Lewis and (5) Ciroflet.

Four N. H. Boys Now Training to Enter the County Secretaryship.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Country Boy.

Nearly two-thirds of the population of New Hampshire are living in towns of 500 and under. About 65 percent of all boys are found in these towns and from these sources come more than 80 percent of our successful men.

For two years plans have been going forward under the direction of State Executive Committee and at the present time three counties have secretaries and thirty towns have associations enrolling more than 600 boys. This number should be doubled during the coming year.

The plan of work is unlike the other methods of Y. M. C. A. work. It is entirely with leadership and leadership training. As it is impossible for the town or community to maintain a local association with the Y. M. C. A. is organized with the town or community uniting to support an expert on all work for boys and also community life. The expense of such a plan amounting to about $3,000 is reasonable and easily borne.

Sullivan County was the first organized and is in the second year of its work. Claremont the largest town in the county, recently closed a three-day campaign raising $3,300 for a two-year's budget. A secretary who will

ROOSEVELT WANTS TO TELL HIS STORY

Furious Because Archbold Allowed to Leave the Country.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Few persons have ever seen Col. Roosevelt get angrier than he was last evening. When he heard that Archbold had been permitted to get away from the witness stand of the Senate Committee without being asked regarding his relations with Senator Penrose, the colonel sent a telegram to Senator Penrose and was still stamping the parchment that he had been permitted to sail to Europe, Roosevelt just stamped about the porch of Sagamore Hill and declared he had never seen such a "frank" man.

might bring a suit for libel against him. "Let him, let him, let him," said Roosevelt. "I'm ready, I doubt if he does there will be many things doing, I have absolutely nothing to conceal."

"This entire testimony of Archbold in an attempt to back up Penrose has been nothing more or less than a thinly veiled attack upon me. There were no questions asked Archbold that would tend to show the real relations between the Standard Oil Company and Senator Penrose. Mr. Bliss is dead and many opportunities were given for pure hearing evidence supposed to be that of Mr. Bliss and which Mr. Bliss is not here to deny."

"I believe Senator Clapp in the inquiry wished to be fair, but they put one over on him, and tried to divert the inquiry from an investigation of the connection between Senator Penrose and the Standard Oil Company into an attack upon me."

"Such an attack has absolutely no foundation. I did not at first realize the extent of the attack, but after finding what had been done, immediately sent a telegram to Senator Clapp asking that I be allowed to reply to Mr. Archbold. I just want the chance."

The colonel's telegram read:

"Senator M. E. Clapp,

"Senate Chamber, Washington, D. C."

"As I am not willing that Mr. Archbold's statement about myself should pass without immediate official contradiction, I request the privilege of appearing before your committee on Monday. My engagements are such that it would be the greatest inconvenience to me and to many others if the hearing is deferred to a later date."

"Theodore Roosevelt."

Roosevelt returned to the question of the relations between Senator Penrose and Mr. Archbold. He said:

"Why was Mr. Archbold not directly questioned as to his dealings with Senator Penrose at the time Senator Penrose was a member of the Industrial Commission? Why was not Mr. Archbold asked why he sent $25,000 to Senator Penrose and how it was that Mr. Penrose sent him an advance report of the committee. There are the vital questions."

Roosevelt said that he hoped he would be allowed to testify on Monday. He said that it has been known in advance for many days that he had made arrangements for the next two months and that it would be practically impossible to break in on these arrangements. For that reason he believes the committee should hear his statement now.

In view of the statement of Archbold, Roosevelt is planning to have written into the Progressive party platform some plan by which the National Government will refrain a part of the expenses of a candidate for President and that outside subscriptions shall be limited to an amount not in excess of that provided by the government.

WILLINGLY RISKED HIS LIFE

English Hospital Surgeon, Knowing Danger, Put His Patient's Interests Before All.

An act of unselfish devotion by Mr. E. T. Mullally, house surgeon of Guy's hospital, London, England, was disclosed at the Shoreditch county court during the hearing of a case recently, which was adjourned some time ago owing to his inability to attend. It was explained that for a month he was hovering between life and death. The details of his fight for the life of a child were furnished by a doctor at Guy's hospital. "There are times," he said, "when life or death is a matter of minutes or even seconds. A child was brought into the hospital suffering from diphtheria in its worst stages. Mr. Mullally, who was the senior surgeon present, saw the child, and understood at once that an immediate operation was imperative, and that even a few minutes' delay might be fatal. Diphtheria in this stage is terribly catching, and in the case of an operation such as Mr. Mullally was to perform, the chances were a hundred to one on his catching the disease unless he took the usual precautions. It was, however, a matter of minutes. Possibly there would have been time for him to fetch his mask, which covers the whole face, and is a sure protection against infection, and to take the other general precautions in such cases. He knew that by doing so—by waiting a few minutes—he was risking the chances of the operation proving successful, and so he decided to operate at once, well realizing that he was almost bound to suffer. He saved the child's life, but he caught the disease, and it was touch-and-go with him during a whole month."

CURED THE CHINESE EMPEROR

Jesuits in Celestial Empire First Gave Quinine to Most Distinguished Patient.

The one great specific for malaria is acknowledged to be quinine, or the extract of Peruvian bark, but it is more than two hundred years since this medicine was introduced into China by the Christian missionaries. The ruling emperor in 1693 was Kaighi, and he suffered from a fever that none of the native physicians could cure. He remembered that the Jesuit missionaries, Fathers Gerbillon and Bouret, had extolled a remedy they had brought from Europe which they called chin-vo (divine remedy), and he decided to try it. The Chinese physicians opposed it, but the emperor took it secretly and was relieved. Having another attack later he proclaimed that every one with a remedy for the fever should come to the palace, as well as those who were suffering. The Jesuits came among the others, bringing the quinine with them. It was tried on several of the patients and they felt improved at once. The grandees of the court were surprised and the emperor decided to try it himself. He found that it affected a permanent cure, and in gratitude the emperor presented a house to the Jesuits and sent his acknowledgment to the king of France for the valuable service rendered by his subjects.

Nawab Sultan Jahan Begam.

Ho, ye women suffragists! Did you ever hear of Bhopal, Bhopal in the land of the Hindus?

Bhopal is a native province of India, ruled by its own princely family. It is one of the most flourishing and most enlightened of all the native states. Time was when its inhabitants, who were warlike, had little time for anything but fighting the Marathas and other fierce tribes by whom they were surrounded.

Then came old Nawab Elkander Begam—a woman ruler—and everything was changed. The arts of war made way for the arts of peace. She was succeeded on the throne by a daughter and she in turn by the woman whose emphatic name heads this editorial.

The influence of these three women rulers has been beyond estimate. Bhopal has been at peace. Her people have developed their industries and their arts. They have flourished and poverty has been decreased.

Hurrah for Jahan Begam! Long may she reign!—Albany Times-Union

Children's Food.

The children, especially boys, are a hearty race of people on picnic days in most cases, and they want a lot of food of the more substantial nature, such as fried chicken, corned beef, fish or clam chowder, and other foods in which they can have a liberal hand as to providing, as well as the eating. Johnnie wants to catch the fish, and if properly flattered, will find great delight in digging the clams, or at least picking them up as father digs them from the beach. The girls will enjoy picking berries, if there are any to pick, and then in helping to cook the food in the camping crudity which helps to make a true picnic of the best possible kind.

Some Good in It.

"I don't hear Blodgett stutter any more."

"No, he's curing himself. When he runs across a difficult sentence he repeats it over and over again until he masters it. See his lips move."

"Yes, what's he saying now?"

"Can't you catch it? He's saying 'irresponsible paranoia.' Try it yourself."

CHURCH HUNDRED YEARS OLD

Anniversary Washington's First Presbyterian House of Worship is Celebrated—Erected 1827.

The First Presbyterian church of Washington celebrated its one hundredth anniversary a few weeks ago. In this structure since its erection in 1827 presidents, cabinet members, senators and representatives in congress, also prominent persons from all walks of life, have worshipped. At the century celebration, when the services were conducted by Rev. Donald C. McLeod, pastor of the church, a historical sermon was preached, and one of the features of the evening was the display of articles used in the original little White Church under the Hill, the name given the church out of which the present First Presbyterian church sprang. It was organized in 1795, and it still has its high mahogany pulpit and silver communion bowl and quite a number of other historic articles.

Andrew Jackson was the first president to attend services there, although he never tied himself to any church, but his leaning was towards the Presbyterian faith. James K. Polk and Franklin Pierce also attended church there. It is said that Pierce used to walk from the executive mansion to this church on Wednesday evening to attend prayer meeting services. Abraham Lincoln worshipped there, and General Grant's pew was No. 67, and he paid $95 a year for it. For nearly 50 years, Dr. Byron Sunderland was pastor there. Dr. Sunderland was one of the dearest little old Christians that ever lived. He was extremely loyal to the flag, and when the war broke out he preached a sermon following the firing on Fort Sumter which so angered some of the communicants of his church, that they got up and walked out.

It was in this church in 1895 that the first flag day exercises in the District of Columbia were held.

A movement to place a bronze tablet in the church corridor giving its history was started recently. It is hoped to have this completed before the inauguration. An endowment fund is also being raised that will secure the future financial status of the church from whose original two dozen members the Washington membership of the Presbyterian church has grown to 10,000.

NO PRIVACY FOR DIPLOMATS

Appropriation for State Department Excludes as Cut Out by the House Committee.

"Gastronomic diplomacy" is not to displace "dollar diplomacy." At least it is the intention of the house committee on appropriations that it shall not. Proof of this is found in the omission from the sundry civil bill of an appropriation which has been asked for the preparation of plans for a kitchen and fashionable dining room in the new building for the department of state. Because the plans as drawn provided for an elaborate banquet room, the appropriations committee omitted the entire item of $40,000, which was requested for the preparation of the plans. The committee took the position that until a new office design, sans culinary equipment, is submitted, nothing should be paid for the plans. As a result, it seems certain that if friendly relations are to be maintained by gratifying the inner man, that sort of diplomacy will have to be practiced in the banquet halls of hotels as in years gone by.

During the hearings on the sundry civil bill it developed that some of the government's nephews had a scheme in mind which would have necessitated keeping a well-stocked larder. It was originally planned to have suites of rooms in the new department of state building, so that they could be used by visiting dignitaries. Under such conditions it would have been unnecessary for Admiral Togo and the Duke of Connaught to associate with American people at the hotels of Washington. "Uncle Sam," inkeeper, would have provided them with free board and lodging while here, but also "economy" spoiled the golden dream.

Enoch Arden Affair.

An Enoch Arden sort of a masculine gender affair occurred here in Washington recently. Wm. Doonan, of Superior, Wis.; A. J. Doonan, of Boston, and M. Doonan, a ranchman of Montana, are three brothers. Two of them, A. J. and M., had not heard a word from the third brother, William, in 22 years, nor had the three brothers met in that time. The Boston and Montana brothers had corresponded, but the Wisconsin brother had not been heard from since he left Boston.

The Boston and Montana brothers agreed to meet each other in Washington and attend the unveiling of Columbus's statue. They met in the lobby of the National hotel, and were talking, when a stranger sauntered up, and, taking a chair near, in a moment discovered that he had found his long-lost brothers. He introduced himself to them and participated in their reminiscences.

Produce Forms of Life.

The work of former investigators, Plasmogon, Toyama and Kellogg, has been substantiated by Mr. Ripley, of the department of biology, Trinity college, Hartford, Conn. Mr. Ripley has produced caterpillars from unfertilized eggs by the action of sulphuric acid, and has therefore carried one step farther the investigation of his predecessors in the production of larvae.

AT THE WENTWORTH.

Carl Behr's Orchestra, Assisted by Mrs. Wielage Give Pleading Concert.

The concert given at Hotel Wentworth last evening was of a very superior order. The Carl Behr Orchestra, having added new laurels to their superb work. Miss Wielage of New York assisted at the concert and her singing has a finish and delicacy that few singers have attained. She breathes her life and freshness with her work, and her songs with other accompaniment and cello obligato by Mr. Behr are long to be remembered by those who were present.

THE SOUTH NOT FOOLED

Mr. Roosevelt is angling for Southern votes but he will be sharply disappointed if he expects the south to swallow his bait, and yield itself as a political fry for his own hungry ambition.

He enjoys to be sure, a good measure of personal popularity in this section, partly because of his half Georgian lineage, his frequent Southern visits, his distinctive and rather pleasing manner, and partly too, because of his varied if somewhat shallow ability. Some scattered votes he will doubtless get in Georgia and her neighbor states; but they will be few if any more than any other presentable republican could secure and certainly they will not suffice so much as to tip the steady balance of democratic strength.

For the rank and file of Southern folk do not fail to distinguish between Roosevelt as a personality and Roosevelt as a third term candidate.

They cannot but realize that on essential matters of government his policies and their convictions, his purpose and their interests, are radically opposite. His ideas on those issues that peculiarly concern our people are not only at variance with Southern thought and sentiment, but they are repellent and dangerous.

Roosevelt stands for a high protective tariff; the South believes with Woodrow Wilson that there should be tariff revision, "steadily and unhesitatingly downward."

Roosevelt stands for a centralization of power in the Federal Government, and particularly in the office of the Chief Executive; the South believes in the sovereign rights of the State.

Roosevelt stands for a government by men rather than by laws and, considering himself the "indispensable man," he would override the nation's laws; unwritten law and trench himself as President with no limit upon his term of power. The South believes in a government by laws, not by men, and every drop of its Democratic blood rebels at the idea of a dictatorship such as Roosevelt would set up.

Mr. Roosevelt is now trying to straddle the race question. As a bid for Southern votes, he excluded the Negroes of this section from his Chicago convention, at the same time opening his arms to the Negroes of the North. But the Southern people will not bite at such bait. They will not forget that a few years ago, when the Negro delegates from the South were necessary for the smooth running of his particular Republican machine, Booker Washington was lined at the White House and Negroes were appointed and reappointed to Federal offices in the South over the earnest protest of Southern citizens. His vaunted conversion on this matter is too suspiciously sudden.

These four questions—the tariff, the constitutional rights of the states, the upholding of the third-term precedent and the political status of the Negro—are all of vital and peculiar interest to the South. They comprise the most important problems with which we have to deal. With what show of grace or logic, then, can a candidate who on every one of these issues antagonizes the best thought and traditions of the section appeal for Southern support?—Exchange.

DOVER ELECTS SUPT. OF PUBLIC WORKS

At a recent meeting of the street and park commission of Dover it was voted to tender the position of superintendent of streets to Arthur T. Rogers, of Hyde Park, Mass.

Mr. Rogers was notified that he had been chosen to fill the vacancy existing for superintendent of streets of this city and last evening a letter was received from him accepting the position.

Mr. Rogers has long been a residence of Hyde Park, Mass., where to seven years he was superintendent of streets, sewers, sidewalks, and garbage, and is said to have been most efficient in the position.

He comes to this city most highly recommended for the position which he is to assume. Mr. Rogers will be here Monday morning to assume the duties of his new position.

MADE IN WASHINGTON.

LAWYERS NOT ONLY THINGS TURNED OUT AT CAPITAL.

Not an Industry Among Many That Has Not Shown Remarkable Increase—Government Largest Manufacturer.

It will surprise many persons to learn that Washington, aside from being the capital of the United States, is a manufacturing center of no small importance. There is not an industry among the many that are followed there that has not shown a remarkable increase in the last five years. In some instances these percentages of increase are even larger than they have been in other cities in the United States that are large manufacturing centers. This, according to Harper's Weekly, has been brought about by several things.

The city has grown rapidly during the last decade. The population of Washington in 1900 was 278,718. In 1910 it was 331,069—a gain of 18.8 per cent. In the same period even such great manufacturing centers as Cincinnati, Lowell, Fall River and Pittsburgh showed smaller gains.

Five years ago the foundry and machine shop business in Washington was of so little importance that it received no mention in the government's statistical reports. In 1910, however, it came to the front with the largest percentage of increase of any of Washington's industries.

There are now twenty-three foundry and machine shops in the District of Columbia, and the latest official figures as to the value of their products showed it to be $1,175,000. This is not a large sum, of course, but it is 163 per cent. greater than it was five years ago.

Lumber and timber products is the only one of Washington's industries that shows a smaller percentage of increase than that of the population of the city. There are ten establishments engaged in the manufacture of lumber and timber. Their products in 1910 were valued at $609,000, an increase of 18.4 per cent. over 1905.

The brewing and distilling concerns of Washington find more than a local consumption for their product. There are five such establishments, and the value of their output increased nearly 55 per cent. in the last five years.

The manufacture of flour was one of the earliest enterprises that were engaged in by the original settlers of this region. It is still a thriving industry which keeps pace with the demand. There are seven mills making flour and grist mill products, and the value of their output in 1910—$506,000—showed an increase of 23.3 per cent. over 1905.

There are fifteen firms in the stone and marble working industry whose product for 1910 reached $549,000. There is no record of a single one engaged in this business in the 1905 reports, which would indicate that it is a brand new form of enterprise in Washington.

There are three large establishments engaged in the manufacture of gas for heating and illuminating purposes. Like the electric light and power companies, these companies are among the city's institutions.

Washington is a rather torrid town in midsummer, and therefore uses a large quantity of ice. There are six ice manufacturers, the value of whose product is close to $1,000,000 annually.

One would fancy, considering that the patent office is in Washington and that the Americans are the greatest inventive geniuses on earth, that the business of model and pattern making would be a very large one. But most of the applicants for patents seem to get their models made elsewhere, doubtless because they can have them constructed in their home towns under their own eyes. There are six concerns engaged in the making of patterns and models in Washington, and they dispose of their product for about $200,000 a year.

The capital employed in all the industrial enterprises in the District of Columbia is more than $30,000,000. In 1905 it was about $10,000,000 less.

The federal government of course is the largest manufacturer of all. It is engaged in nearly a hundred different lines of manufacturing industry. The total number of its employees in its various plants exceeds 12,000. Of these the bureau of engraving and printing has 4,190, the naval gun factory (the United States navy yard), 3,141, and the government printing office 4,155.

Wrong Pipe.

Marion had been silent for three minutes at least, and Mrs. Cook, thinking that she was depressed and wishing to cheer her up, handed her the platter of golden brown biscuits with the suggestion, "Have another, Marion!"

"No, thank you, Mrs. Cook, no more biscuits for me," replied the child decidedly.

"Why not, Marion? Don't you like my biscuits?"

"Oh, they're very nice," responded the child politely, "but I won't eat any more; a piece of the last one I had went down the wrong pipe and almost choked me!"

Harry Atwood, the aviator, said recently:

"While you may laugh, trans-ocean flying will become a reality.

"I had considerable difficulty in leaving the water on my first flight here and while there is difficulty in landing in swells we have not advanced to a high stage of ocean flying.

"I wish to have you know that I can and will fly in any sort of wind and while it is often believed that aeroplanes are wrecked by winds such a theory is entirely wrong as accidents are always caused by faulty motors as the wind cannot capsize an aeroplane or wreck a machine in the air. It is impossible for an aeroplane to be turned over by the wind and all the difficulty comes through the engines.

Atwood said that it would not be dangerous for him to fly over the City of Portsmouth but that he most always selected a place where he might land in safety. "I always have a gliding angle and providing I should be 1,000 feet above Portsmouth and directly over the city, I could easily glide over the city and land in the fields or low grounds without danger.

"I would be more dangerous for me to be one mile away and coming in the direction of Portsmouth than to be directly over the city if my engine stopped.

"I fly because I love it. You haven't any idea what it means to fly over the land and sea and you cannot realize the sensation in gliding to earth or water from a height of 1,000 feet.

"Just at the present time aviation is dead because many aviators have been killed. They have become discouraged by accomplishments of others and have tried long distance flights. They have built great machines because they have learned that the standard machines are expensive and many have taken great risks.

"You cannot fool with the business, but the possibilities are unlimited and there is no reason why we should not cross the ocean. Such a feat may not be accomplished this year or possibly not in 50 years, but now that we have gone so far and done so much man will not rest until the feat shall have been accomplished."

CAMP MEETING OF SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS

Seventh Day Adventists from various places in Vermont and New Hampshire will attend the annual camp meeting and business session of the northern New England Conference of that denomination to be held in Manchester, Aug. 21 to Sept. 1.

Among the places that will be represented are Bellows Falls, Brattleboro, Amica, Randolph, Woodstock, Montpelier, Burlington and Rutland, Vermont; and Grafton, Center Barnstead, Marlow, Concord and Charlestown, in New Hampshire.

There will be daily attendance of several hundred and the campers will live in tents during their stay for the preaching services, business sessions, children's and young people's meetings, and for dining purposes will also be put up.

Practically all of the ministers in the conference will be present and also several visitors. Among the visitors expected are W. B. White of South Lancaster, Mass., president of the Atlantic Union Conference which includes the state conferences in New England and New York; J. E. Jayne of New Bedford, Mass., religious liberty secretary of the Atlantic Union Conference; and A. J. Haysmer of Huntsville, Ala., who is secretary of the North American Color-

There will be three services each day, which the public is cordially invited to attend. Some interesting questions promise to come up for consideration at the business sessions. Plans will be outlined for the advancement of the denomination in New Hampshire and Vermont during the coming year; reports will be read by the president, F. W. Stray of Bellows Falls, the secretary-treasurer, secretaries of the different departments and ministers; officers will be elected and credentials issued. This will be the 56th annual session of the conference, which, until New Hampshire was included, was known as the Vermont Conference. Each church is entitled to one delegate for the organization in the business meetings and to one additional delegate to every ten members.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ASSOCIATION OF ASSESSORS.

President Joseph O. Tremblay and Secretary William P. Farmer of the New Hampshire Association of Assessors, which was organized in Manchester last February, are making arrangements for the fall meeting of the association. The exact date has not been decided, but it will be somewhere from the 11th to the 16th of September, and the meeting will be held in Manchester or vicinity. The officers have several places in mind and will select the one where the best arrangements can be effected. A suitable place for the business meeting as well as the banquet is desired.

Among the matters to come before the association will be the report of the committee on bylaws, of which Assessor Chas. C. Dorr of Dover is chairman. There will be a general discussion of tax matters. All assessors of the state, including the selectmen of towns, are eligible to membership.

There was no game at the playground on Saturday afternoon. The P. A. C. and Y. M. C. A. were to have played, but the game was cancelled.

If things continue, Portsmouth's main business street will be used exclusively for foot black stands. It is not to the credit of landlords that this is so, and it is not advertising local business conditions.

Pinched Mary Garden for Leas.

In an article on baseball "fans" in the August American Magazine Hugh S. Fullerton tells the following story:

"One of the quickest things I ever heard was a remark from a Washington fan which upset Frank Isbell, the veteran, completely. Isbell's head is as bald as a concrete pavement and usually he kept his cap plastered tightly on his head to shield himself from the gibes of crowds. This time he tried to steal second, and made a desperate, diving slide around and under the baseman, only to be called out. He was so enraged that he ran at the umpire, grabbed his arm, argued and raved and finally in sheer anger jerked off his cap, hurled it onto the ground and jumped upon it. His bald head glistened in the sunlight and the crowd roared. Then above the roar came a voice:

"Put on that cap. They pinched Mary Garden here for less than that."

Height Too Much for Birds.

John Mull says that among the larger birds of the Yosemite valley are geese and eagles, and the former are often deceived in the height of the valley walls, rising to considerable height, only to find that the task is beyond them and then descending with loud screams. They are strong of wind and limb, but starting from the bottom they cannot reach the top.

DOCTOR COULDN'T TAKE HINT

Patient Wanted Advice That Suggested Her, and Would Go Where She Could Get It.

"Doctor," she plaintively said, "I want you to tell me just what is the matter with me."

"There is nothing the matter with you," the doctor replied, after he had questioned her concerning her symptoms, "except that you need a good rest. Go away to some quiet place, where you can sit or lie around and be free from worry of any kind. You don't need medicine. It wouldn't do you any good if you took it."

"Where would you advise me to go?"

"Oh, you must suit yourself about that. There are plenty of places where you can go—any place that is quiet, where you can sit or lie around will do."

"Thank you. Do you think Atlantic City would be a good place for me?"

"No, don't go to any place like that. Select some quiet spot where you will not have to worry about dressing or anything of that kind. If you could go up into the woods somewhere, or if you could spend a couple of months on a Montana ranch, it would be the best thing in the world for you."

"Oh! Well, I've just had six new gowns made and if you can't give me any medicine that will make me feel better I shall go to some other doctor. I never did believe you knew anything, anyhow."

LANDLORD ENJOYS THE JOKE

Friend of Tenants in French Capital Finds Himself in Something of a Dilemma.

For once that French public benefactor known as Cochon, who champions poor families who cannot find lodgings, has reckoned without his host. Whenever a tenant has trouble with his landlord and desires to put him to inconvenience he sends for Cochon. The latter is always ready to get even with landlords, and eagerly responds to in the invitations he receives.

A student at the Ecole des Arts and Manufactures was at loggerheads with his landlord and obtained the breaking of his lease for a flat in the Boulevard de Strasbourg. Before clearing out he thought he would like a little fun at the landlord's expense.

A message was sent to the indispensable Cochon, the erstwhile secretary of the Tenants' league and the founder of a similar institution. Cochon sent the student three families, each consisting of four children. The families did not enjoy their new quarters long, for the landlord obtained an order for their immediate expulsion. The evicted families now look to Cochon to find new quarters for them. Cochon does not know where he can find them. His responsibility is a heavy one. For once the table have been turned upon him.

Not Guilty as Charged.

According to Joe O'Neil, Tin Fang, who operates a thriving fan-gam game down on Mott street, New York, found it necessary to repress a kicker the other day. It happens that Mr. Fang also has a professional connection with a restaurant, and that day had taken a butcher's cleaver from the kitchen to his gambling room, that he might sharpen it in his moments of leisure. It was this wide-bladed ax that he seized when he undertook to abate the human nuisance. "The next day he was arrested," said Mr. O'Neil, "and the copper that made the pinch brought this cleaver into court as evidence. The magistrate looked old Tin Fang over.

"Did you try to kill the complaining witness?" he asked.

"No, no," bubbled old Tin Fang. "Me no try to kill um."

"He did so," said the copper. "He tried to kill that guy with this here cleaver, your honor."

"Is this charge true?" asked the court severely. Tin Fang saw that it was up to him to clear himself.

"No, no," he chattered. "No, I kill um with cleaver. Kill um with Ill bite knife—no big cleaver at all."

Any article that is endorsed at home is more worthy of confidence. Than one you know nothing about. Endorsed by unknown people. Thomas Entwistle, chief of police, 47 Cabot street, Portsmouth, N. "I think as highly of Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did years ago when I first used them. At that time I was in a bad way as the result of kidney trouble, and though I had repeatedly tried remedies to get relief, my efforts were in vain. When Doan's Kidney Pills came to my attention, I procured a supply at Phillips's Drug Store and began using them as directed. In a short time I was rid of kidney trouble and felt better in every way. I occasionally have a slight pain in my back, but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills give me prompt relief."
